OWNER/INSTALLER RESPONSIBILITIES Wood flooring is a product of nature characterized by distinctive variations in grain, pattern, and color. These natural variations are neither flaws or defects, but rather the natural beauty and uniqueness of wood, and should be expected. Only stained products will have the most uniformity in color or shade. Before beginning the installation, first determine if the job site and subfloor conditions are acceptable. • Please inspect the flooring panels carefully for any possible damage or defects before installation. Do not install damaged or defective panels! Warranty claims will not be accepted regarding visual defects after flooring has been installed.
